FAN CAMP! 2025

When: Friday, September 26th & Saturday, September 27th
10 am to 5pm both days.

Where: Tim Marks'- (White Glove Fans) Shop- 8400 Airport Rd. Bath, PA 18067

Who: This event is hosted by Tim Marks and Lane Shirey. Instructional seminars will be led by your hosts and restoration experts to be announced.

Please RSVP to Lane Shirey by Sept. 15, 2025. 717-579-6946 by text or call. Space in the shop is limited. Don't wait.

What is FAN CAMP?- Whether you're a beginner or an expert, it's your chance to see close-up how key steps in the restoration process are performed.

For this year's project, over the 2-day event, we'll demonstrate step-by-step, all key parts in the restoration of a GE Brass Bell Loophandle Oscillator Fan. Time permitting, we'll turn a rusty flea market find into a beautiful restored gem.

Participants will have the ability to get some hands-on experience by jumping in to help with the restoration process. Be prepared to get DIRTY!

Partial list of skills to be demonstrated:	✓ Blade and Brass Polishing	✓ Sand Casting Parts
	✓ Painting and Paint Restoration	✓ Cloth Cord "Whipping"
	✓ Headwire Replacement	✓ Machining Bearings and Parts
	✓ Switch Refurbishment	✓ General Cleaning and Servicing

Who should attend?- Anyone who has an interest in antique "brass and cast" fans and wants to learn how to restore fans or improve their skills to make their restorations more "professional-looking".

Wait, there's more! There will also be lots of brass-era fans for show and sale. Feel free to bring your antique fans to sell or tell. There will be some tables available to set up your fans. This meet is focused on antique fans built earlier than 1960. In addition, there will be great food and camaraderie!

The meet is conveniently located near the Lehigh Valley International Airport and major highways through PA. There's a lot to do in the area, even for those that are less interested in fans. Antiquing, dining, shopping, and more.

DON'T DELAY! Hotels in this area fill very fast toward the Fall!. Be sure to book as early as possible. Look for hotels in the Allentown, Bethlehem or Easton area.

Please RSVP soon. Space at the shop is limited!
